Nowadays it often seems that wood engraving, as the oldest graphic technique, is inferior to other techniques. There is no doubt that this is mainly the result of the development of computer graphics, which has recently become very fashionable. Therefore, the organizers, willing to save wood engraving from falling into oblivion, have resolved to invite young artists from all over the world to participate in the Second International Wood Engraving Triennial Zakopane 2010. The competition is addressed to young artists (students of secondary school) who continue to learn sculpture techniques as well as other fine art disciplines. The organizers of the Second International Wood Engraving Triennial hope that the competition will attract many young artists to this noble and demanding discipline of workshop graphics. Bearing also in mind the great contribution of Władysław Skoczylas, an artist and longstanding educator of The Wood Industry School (presently The Complex of Art Schools), into the contemporary Polish wood engraving, we wish to rediscover the oldest graphic technique in this competition and its following editions. The First International Wood Engraving Triennial Zakopane 2006 met with great interest of young artists. The competition received 500 works from 14 countries including Belarus, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Canada, Denmark, Egypt, Estonia, Indonesia, Kazakhstan, Lithuania, Russia, Slovenia and Poland. Awarded and honourably mentioned works are presented on our school's website: www.zsp-kenar.pl
